

Finishing Core Lining bottom & side edges - Step 45-46

Here's a picture of the Core Lining bottom and side edges lines up and ready for stitching

I know a lot of folks will prefer hand or whipstitching this area closed but I always just machine-stitch it! I think the machine-stitching stands up better under usage too.

;))

Finishing Core Lining bottom & side edges - Step 45-46 (page 2)

In this picture (above) I've started lining up the pressed side edges of the Core Lining ~1/4" away from the zipper teeth on the WS of the purse zipper.

And here you can see that the both sides are pinned in place as is the area underneath the zipper. This is one area that will indeed need to be handstitched. I'm not crazy about handstitching either, but it wont take long. :)